DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1 and 5 recite the limitation "the support piece". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,688,208 B2 in view of Castleton (4,598,482). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because Castleton (4,598,482) teaches the use of a second end having a second angled cut at an acute angle A for the purpose of guiding the saw for cutting the workpiece at the exact angle without adjusting the stop piece or guide. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Campbell'208's stop piece by providing the second end having the second angled cut at an acute angle as taught by Castleton in order to guide the saw for cutting the workpiece at the exact angle without adjusting the stop piece or guide.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baker (3,913,440) in view of Castleton (4,598,482) and Volk (4,608,898).

Volk discloses the invention substantially as claimed including a stop piece 18, a cutting guide 11 having and inverted L-shaped configuration, an elongated horizontal component 11b, a vertical component (see Fig. 3), a slot 11a, a plurality of apertures with a plurality of screws 16 and ends (see Fig. 1, where the end close to the cutting guide can be called the first end or the second end). Baker does not show a first end having a first angled cut at an obtuse angle and a second end having a second angled cut at an acute angle and a support bracket. However,

Castleton teaches the use of a first end having a first angled cut at an obtuse angle B and a second end having a second angled cut at an acute angle A for the purpose of guiding the saw for cutting the workpiece at the exact angles without adjusting the stop piece or guide. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Baker's stop piece by providing the first end having the first angled cut at an obtuse angle and the second end having the second angled cut at an acute angle as taught by Castleton in order to guide the saw for cutting the workpiece at the exact angle without adjusting the stop piece or guide.

Regarding the support bracket, Volk teaches the use of a support bracket 38 for the purpose of firmly maintaining the workpiece. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified Baker's device by providing the support bracket as taught by Volk in order to firmly maintain the workpiece.
